PLACES TO VISIT

Topkapı Palace Museum

Topkapı Palace and Harem (Topkapı Sarayı) are likely to have more colourful stories than most of the world's museums put together. Powerful sultans, ambitious courtiers, beautiful concubines and scheming eunuchs lived and worked here between the 15th and 19th centuries when it was the court of the Ottoman Empire. After the founding of the Republic of Turkey, Topkapı Palace was converted into a museum on April 3, 1924, having the distinction of being the first museum of the Republic. Today, Topkapı Palace is one of the largest palace-museums in the world with its buildings, architecture, collections and approximately 300,000 archive documents.

Hagia Sophia

Once a church, later a mosque. Masterpiece of the History of Architecture. The Hagia Sophia Grand Mosque / Ayasofya-i Kebir Cami-i Şerifi, with its innovative architecture, rich history, religious significance and extraordinary characteristics has been fighting against time for centuries. It is the largest Eastern Roman Church in Istanbul. Constructed three times in the same location, it is the world's oldest and fastest-completed cathedral. All visitors, Muslims and non-Muslims are allowed to enter Hagia Sophia Mosque. Visitors should remove their shoes before stepping onto the mosque's carpets. Avoid visiting Hagia Sophia Mosque at prayer times (five times a day), especially noon praying on Fridays. Stay silent during your visit, don't run and stand in front of anyone praying. There is no entrance fee to visit Hagia Sophia Mosque, but donations are welcome.

PLACES TO VISIT

The Blue Mosque

Sultan Ahmet Camii (Blue Mosque) is one of the most magnificent buildings in Turkey. The building is not just a mosque; it is also a social life complex. After the Peace of Zsitvatorok and the crushing loss in the 1603-1618 war with Persia, Sultan Ahmet I, decided to build a big mosque in Istanbul to reassert Ottoman power. The mosque was built on the site of the palace of the Byzantine emperors, in front of the Basilica Ayasofya (at that time, the primary imperial mosque in Istanbul) and the Hippodrome, a site of significant symbolic meaning as it dominated the city skyline from the south. Big parts of the south shore of the mosque rest on the foundations, the vaults of the old Grand Palace.

The Basilica Cistern

One of Istanbul's splendid historical buildings is the Basilica Cistern located in the southwest of Hagia Sophia. This large underground cistern built by Byzantine Emperor Justinian I (527-565) was named as Yerebatan Palace among the people due to the marble columns rising from the water and countless seemingly like. It is also known as Basilica Cistern since there is a Basilica in the place where the cistern is located.

📍 PLACES TO VISIT

The Grand Bazaar

One of the oldest and largest covered markets in the world, the Grand Bazaar dates from the 15th century. Having more than 4000 shops, this traditional bazaar is visited by the local and international tourists regularly. The most important historical shopping centre of Istanbul is the Grand Bazaar. A walk through the Bazaar is a journey amidst enchanting scents of spices, dazzling colours, hypnotizing sounds, beautiful handicrafts, and of course the tempting smell of Turkish coffee. No wonder it is one of the most popular shopping areas in the world. The number of daily visitors reaches half a million people during the peak summer months.

The Spice Bazaar

While the Grand Bazaar may be the largest and most famous of Istanbul's covered bazaars, this spice market wins the prize for being the most colourful, fragrant, and often the most fun – as visitors can taste the goods on offer. Built in 1664, as part of the Yeni Camii (New Mosque) complex, it is known in Turkish as Mısır Çarşısı, and sometimes translated to "Egyptian Bazaar" or 'Corn Market' (mısır means both Egypt and corn in Turkish).

PLACES TO VISIT

Galata Tower Museum

Considered among the oldest towers in the world and one of the symbols of Istanbul, Galata Tower (Galata Kulesi) was included in the UNESCO World Heritage Temporary List in 2013. Galata Tower, one of the most important structures that make up the silhouette of Istanbul, was used as a long-term fire watchtower and was named Galata Fire Tower. Galata Tower was first built by the Byzantine Emperor Justinianos in 507-508 AD.

Sirkeci Station

Sirkeci is where the famed Orient Express ended its run from Paris, at this 19th-century Orientalist station near Seraglio Point beneath the walls of Topkapı Palace, right next to Eminönü, its ferry docks, and Galata Bridge. With the opening of the Marmaray regional train line on October 29, 2013, Sirkeci Station took on a new purpose as an important stop on this cross-Bosphorus rail line.

Istanbul Archaeological Museum

The İstanbul Arkeoloji Müzesi (Istanbul Archaeological Museums) complex is one of the most underrated museums of Istanbul and actually consists of three museums: the Archaeology Museum, the Ancient Orient Museum, and the Islamic Art Museum (also known as the Tiled Kiosk Museum).

It was founded by a master painter, Osman Hamdi Bey (see his famous Tortoise Trainer painting at the Pera Museum) in 1875, in a response to the removal of many of Turkey's ancient artifacts destined for European museums.

PLACES TO VISIT

Istanbul Modern

Istanbul Modern was founded in 2004 as Turkey's first museum of modern and contemporary art. Committed to sharing Turkey's artistic creativity and cultural identity with the local and international art worlds, the museum hosts a broad array of interdisciplinary activities. Istanbul Modern embraces a global vision to collect, preserve, display and document works of modern and contemporary art, photography, design, architecture, new media and cinema. It acts as an intermediary in the sharing of Turkey's cultural identity with the international art environment.

The Museum of Innocence

The Museum of Innocence is both a novel by Orhan Pamuk and a museum he has set up. From the very beginnings of the project, since the 1990s, Pamuk has conceived of novel and museum together. The novel, which is about love, is set between 1974 and the early '00s, and describes life in Istanbul between 1950 and 2000 through memories and flashbacks, centred around two families – one wealthy, the other lower middle class.

◆ PLACES TO VISIT

Hippodrome

The capacity of the Hippodrome was approximately 40,000 and it was free and open to male members of the community. At least eight different games could be held throughout the day and it was also used as a symbol of power for the Empire.

The Hippodrome was decorated with monuments that were brought in from across the Empire including the Serpent Column (Yılanlı Sütun) from Delphi and Obelisk of Thutmosis III (Obelisk of Theodosius) from Egypt. With these landmarks and monuments -brought from all around the world- the Byzantine Empire was proudly showing its strength and thousands of kilometres long territory ruled by them.

Princes' Islands

The Princes' Islands ("Adalar" in Turkish) are an archipelago in the Sea of Marmara, they are a small haven of peace in Istanbul and a perfect place to relax and enjoy nature. They owe their name to the fact that during the Byzantine period the imperial family and disgraced aristocrats were exiled in the monasteries on the islands. They then became the favourite weekend destination of the Ottoman aristocracy, and even today you will find many Victorian-style villas. The four main islands of the archipelago are Büyükada, Heybeliada, Burgazada, and Kınalıada. They are accessible by ferry from Beşiktaş, Eminönü, and Kabataş from the European side, and Kadıköy and Bostancı from the Asian side.

◆ PLACES TO VISIT

Maiden's Tower

Approximately 650 feet (200 meters) from the coast of Üsküdar, the Maiden's Tower can be found on a small island at the southern entrance of the Bosphorus. Even though it's not known exactly when the tower was built, the architectural style is synonymous with the era around 340 BCE. The landmark was previously known as Leandros and Damalis – named after the wife of Kharis, the king of Athens. During the Byzantine era, it was also known as "arcla," which means "little castle."

Taksim Square

Taksim Meydanı situated in Beyoğlu in the European part of Istanbul, Turkey, is a major tourist and leisure district famed for its restaurants, shops, and hotels. It is considered the heart of modern Istanbul, with the central station of the İstanbul Metro network. Taksim Square is also the location of the Republic Monument (Turkish: Cumhuriyet Anıtı) which was crafted by Pietro Canonica and inaugurated in 1928. The monument commemorates the 5th anniversary of the foundation of the Republic of Turkey in 1923, following the Turkish War of Independence.
